Secret Science	16-24	Enrichment/ Informative/ Entertainment	When it comes to human emotions of joy, anger and fear, we all think we understand them well – but as Secret Science demonstrates, they are not as simple as they seem. Of the six core emotions that humans feel, joy is probably our favourite. What can we do to get more joy in our lives? Anger – the most formidable of emotions – is often perceived as a menace, an uncontrollable force of destruction. It clouds our judgement and fuels reactions that we might later regret. But is anger really all that bad? Secret Science looks at anger through a different lens to uncover its full potential. The series also explores the fine line between healthy fear that guards us against danger and the overwhelming fears that can spiral into phobias, disrupting lives. And if fears are learned, can they be unlearned?	May-Jul
